Projects

GitHub Finder

create a web application that allows you to search for GitHub users and explore their repositories. Built using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript , this project showcases the power of front-end development and the effective use of APIs and modules.

Code Genis Academy

Create a fully functional interactive website using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. The website will enable users to register, take quizzes, and view their scores and personal information on their profile page

News-Website

create a dynamic and interactive website that could fetch data from external APIs, specifically articles and news. To handle the data storage, I implemented a JSON server, which allowed me to easily store and retrieve the information
