Full Stack Web Developer

CAREER OBJECTIVE

I am a dedicated Full Stack Web Developer with comprehensive training from Orange Coding Academy, encompassing 900 hours of technical training and 100 hours of soft skills development. I also hold a Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science from the Hashemite University. My technical proficiency spans a variety of technologies, including HTML, CSS, JavaScript, SQL, Java, C# and the MERN Stack.

I worked for six months at a company specializing in money transfer systems, where I developed software solutions using Java, enhancing my skills in building distributed financial systems. Additionally, I gained experience in C# during my training at Leading Point, allowing me to work on diverse projects and apply best practices in software development.

Throughout my educational and training journey, I have led development teams in multiple projects, taking on roles such as Scrum Master and Product Owner, which strengthened my leadership and strategic planning skills. I have built applications across various domains, including task management, e-commerce, and equipment rental platforms.

Eager to leverage academic training and practical experience in dynamic entry-level software development and full-stack engineering positions.
